

NEWS FROM THE 2009 COLLECTION

Galvin Green targets young golfers

As part of the new 2009 collection, Galvin Green is introducing a new design line for juniors. The clothes, which have been specially designed for younger golfers, feature the same high-quality performance and the same functional material as the rest of the collection.

“This is a completely new initiative,” relates Christian Nilsson, CEO of Galvin Green. “Interest in good, functional clothing for young people is increasing so we are introducing a special line for juniors in our 2009 collection. We have created a junior collection where function, design and price have been specially adapted to suit a younger target group.”

In order to accommodate the most stringent demands, the junior collection features items from most of the Multi-Layer segments. The clothes are available in a generous range of sizes, from 134/140 up to 158/164. In addition, the prices have been adapted to suit this target group, which is growing rapidly – in both senses of the word.

The new products include RIO, an extremely light and versatile rain jacket in Gore-Tex® Paclite® Shell fabric. With its excellent breathability and waterproof properties, RIO is the perfect choice for really demanding weather conditions. The jacket is available in black/red and black/light blue and goes very well indeed with RIVER waterproof trousers, which are made of the same material.

ROBIN is the jacket for cold and windy days. It is made of lightweight Windstopper® Soft shell fabric, and is therefore completely windproof. The soft lining provides a delicious warmth, while the functional material ensures that the item breathes perfectly. Available in black with red details.

REED is a soft pullover made of Insula™ fabric. Its excellent breathability efficiently eliminates surplus body heat and moisture, ensuring a comfortable body temperature at all times. REED is very easy to care for, and this comfortable item is a perfect intermediate layer in cold weather. Available in black with red seams and details.

The junior collection also contains lighter items in a delightful cotton/polyester mix. The short-sleeved golf shirt REMY is an item that provides maximum freedom of movement and coolness on warm summer days. Available in red and light blue.
